

Professor of Medicine or Surgery,
Harvard Medical School and Chief Executive Officer of the Cardiovascular Institute
BETH ISRAEL DEACONESS MEDICAL CENTER
Boston, Massachusetts

Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center and Harvard Medical School are seeking a distinguished academic clinician, scholar and proven leader to serve as CEO of the Cardiovascular Institute at the Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center. The CEO will provide administrative leadership for all medical staff functions and affairs of the Institute. The successful candidate will have a record of achievement in academic leadership and mentoring, possess outstanding clinical and teaching skills, and have experience in research and the ability to develop research programs in the Institute. Preferably, s/he should have a history of external, peer-reviewed research funding, and should possess a vision for developing the Institute in a dynamic and competitive marketplace. Candidates must be capable of directing the Institute's clinical and research efforts as well as educational and training programs. We are looking for an individual who has the energy and vision to promote a broad portfolio of research, education, and service programs of the highest quality. Candidates must have a national or international reputation and scholarly achievements appropriate for appointment at the level of Professor at Harvard Medical School. The CEO will be regarded nationally as an effective academic leader; one who brings innovation and transformational leadership abilities to address current and future healthcare challenges. Excellent communication and facilitation skills are required, and experience in entrepreneurial and joint venture engagements is desirable. Successful candidates will have had at least ten years academic leadership experience in addition to their medical degree and board certification in cardiology, cardiothoracic surgery, or vascular surgery. Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center and Harvard Medical School are Equal Opportunity Employers. Women and minorities are particularly encouraged to apply. Please send applications or nominations, together with a current curriculum vitae, to:
