

Director of Gynecologic Oncology Laboratory at Brigham and Women's Hospital

The Division of Gynecologic Oncology, Department of Obstetrics, Gynecology and Reproductive Biology at Brigham and Women's Hospital and Harvard Medical School seeks to recruit a Director for the Gynecologic Oncology Laboratory. The Gynecologic Oncology Laboratory has been focused on basic molecular biologic investigation of gynecologic cancer and in particular ovarian cancer for the past 35 years. The Laboratory is fully equipped to effectively pursue proteomic and genomic studies. The Director must be a capable researcher and mentor and be able to effectively collaborate with other investigators in the Ovarian Cancer SPORE and Dana Farber Harvard Cancer Center. Preference is for an appointment at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor but the level will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Brigham and Women's Hospital is committed to hiring a diverse workforce.
