(Instructor, Assistant, or Associate Professor)
FULL-TIME POSITION

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center is seeking a full-time fellowship-trained clinician who can develop a Urogynecology Section. There is potential for appointment as section head for qualified candidates. The department has a full accredited residency program with 20 residents and is a large tertiary referral center with fellowships in MFM and REI. Responsibilities include clinical care, house staff and medical student education, and participation in and development of research activities. The ideal candidate enjoys working in a multidisciplinary environment and values a positive, collegial environment.

Salary and academic rank at Harvard Medical School in the department of Obstetrics and Gynecology will be commensurate with experience and qualifications.
