Course Description

FEATURED SPEAKERS

Bernard Hammes, PhD
Lynn Spragens, MBA

This three-day course is designed to offer physicians and other clinicians the information and skills needed to provide high-quality, specialist-level palliative care to patients with life-threatening illnesses in a variety of practice settings. Through plenaries and workshops, participants will develop a toolbox of palliative care competencies and will learn from colleagues facing similar practice challenges. The course will address the assessment and management of physical, psychological, social, spiritual, and existential sources of suffering experienced by patients and their families. Sessions also focus on cultural issues, communication, prognostication, bereavement, management of various non-oncological conditions, the special needs of patients at various stages of the life cycle, and ethical, legal, and practical issues in the setting of advanced illness. Recent research in palliative care will also be included.

Our keynote speaker, Bernard Hammes, PhD, is the leading international expert on advance care directives. He is best known for developing Respecting Choices®, a widely used and respected approach to training clinicians about advance care planning. He will be speaking about Advanced Care Planning, What's Failed? What Worked? and on Creating a System that Helps Patients and Physicians. Lynn Spragens, MBA is the nation's leading consultant for developing palliative care programs. As a consultant in the business of health care, she has been a prominent figure in the Center to Advance Palliative Care. She will give the concluding plenary on The Future of Palliative Care Programs. Our expert, interdisciplinary faculty will provide a broad and deep perspective on the field of hospice and palliative medicine for all clinicians at all levels.

Course Objectives

This course will enable clinicians to:

1. Assess and manage the physical, psychological, social, and spiritual/existential causes of distress in patients with life-limiting diseases and their families.
2. Develop practical strategies for introducing discussions of patient fears, hopes, goals, and wishes for care at the end of life, including use of life-sustaining technology, balancing hope and honesty in discussing treatment options, and dealing with the ethical issues that arise at the end of life.
3. Cultivate approaches to working with diverse patient populations (e.g., pediatrics, geriatrics) different diseases (e.g., heart failure, pulmonary disease, dementia), challenging scenarios (e.g., withholding fluids and nutrition at the end of life, addiction, palliative sedation, "difficult" patients and families, talking with children about death), and various settings (e.g., long-term care, intensive care unit).
